(PRWEB) October 9, 2006 -- Sinol USA, Inc launched the new Sinol Nasal spray this past week to the all-natural market in Baltimore at the Natural Products Expo East, the nation's largest all-natural trade show. This new drug is non-addictive, has no side effects and is being used at The New York Allergy and Sinus Center.

The new nasal spray is made with capsaicin, a powerful dilator and analgesic that relieve sinus and allergies fast without side effects. The other ingredients include aloe, eucalyptus, rosemary and sea salt which helps keep the sinuses clean and bacteria free. This new nasal spray is a powerful new drug to put in your arsenal to combat serious sinus and allergy problems. Sinol is not addictive and can be used liberally at the first sign of allergy and sinus symptoms.

“The capsaicin begins draining your sinuses very quickly and then the other ingredients insure they stay clear and clean,” said Caley Gibbons, a Sinol USA employee. “The response from the all natural marketplace was quite overwhelming,” Gibbons continued. “We met with the largest distributors in the category and will begin delivering the Sinol Nasal Spray to them as soon as this week,” Gibbons said.

“If you suffer from sinus problems and allergies you need to get this product and start on a daily regiment. We recommend using Sinol before you got to bed, when you wake up and anytime you want throughout the day,” Gibbons commented.

“The Sinol booth was buzzing,” reported Sunnie Hager, Vice president of Ascent Marketing based in Boulder Colorado. “There are many new products every year at the show but the great ones really shine, this is a great one,” Hager said.

Sinol USA's CEO, Paul Carpenter, appeared on “Healthy Talk Radio” Thursday morning with Debra Ray. The Healthy Talk Radio is syndicated nationally and is very well know in the all natural market. Debra Ray was celebrating her 25 year anniversary at Expo East.

“The new Sinol product is a breath of fresh air to those that suffer from sinus and allergy conditions,” reported Ray. “Dr Leo Galland, known internationally as a leader in the field of Nutritional Medicine for the past 20 years, has been talking about this new Sinol product, Ray explained. “When your product gets the attention of people of that magnitude you know it's a significant breakthrough in all natural medicine,” said Debra Ray.

Sinol is now being used by the National Allergy Center in NY and at the New England Center for Headache. Not many “all natural” products reach this level in the marketplace and being held on a pedestal by so many physicians and well respected medical personnel.

If you suffer from sinusitis, rhinitis, or just have mild allergies sinus problems and congestion Sinol might be the answer to your prayers.
